After many months absence, one of the best radio repair men who ever lived in Washington C. H., has come back home. He is Don Collins formerly identified for nine years with Taylor Appliances on West Court Street. He was regarded as a real expert in radio work. He took great interest in shortwave radio communication and has talked directly by short wave with radio enthusiasts in every country in the world. Don left here about two years ago to accept a position with a radio broadcasting station in Pennsylvania and was regarded so highly in his work that some months later station WBNS at Columbus persuaded him to become one of their expert technicians and he has been there for over a year. He always liked Washington C. H. and felt a constant longing to return here to the place regarded as home. Sensing this situation Ralph Taylor who has endeavored to keep up a radio repair headquarters under difficulties finally entered into negotiations with Collins to come back here and take charge of radio work for him. He was finally successful in closing a deal and Collins is here again on the job. He and his wife have moved to a residence at 729 North North Street and Don is happy to be back among his friends again and they are just as happy to have him here.

Many of you folks who are accustomed to visiting the Washington Country Club, and a lot of you who do not, probably never stop to realize that the club house and grounds are very attractive, the setting being ideal and decidedly out of the ordinary.

The beautiful grounds and club house always attract the attention of the observing visitor, and I know that if you Country Club officers and members would have heard the praise given the place by prominent members of the Ohio Federation of Music Club, here for the Middle-west District Conference Wednesday, you would pause a little and look about the premises in deeper appreciation of the beautiful setting.

Officers from Columbus (including the president, Mrs. Freeman E. Eagleson and Miss Ruth Deeds, president of the Women's Music Club), Marion, Springfield, Greenville, Xenia and others, spoke in highest praise of the lovely club house and its rustic surroundings.

"And right here at the very foot of the city, too!" exclaimed one enthusiastic officer.

The club house is surrounded by large forest trees and beautiful grounds, and it is one of the most attractive club grounds in this part of Ohio, so let all of us appreciate it just a little more as a valuable asset to the community, in addition to its ideal facilities or healthful recreation on the golf course, which is one of the best in central Ohio.

PLANE GRAZES BED OF SLEEPING CHILD

Two Year Old Escapes Injury; Blanket in Plane Wreckage

GROTON, Conn., Oct. 19.—(P)—A Navy fighter plane glanced off a house rooftop today in a rash landing, tearing the blanket from the bed of a sleeping two-year-old child who escaped with only minor scratches.

The Navy public relations office announced the crash at Boston, and reported that Connecticut state police found the missing blanket in the wreckage of the plane in a nearby school yard where the craft came to rest after colliding with the side of the school.

The child, Margaret Morton, was buried in plaster and debris until her father, Thomas, dug her out, frightened but unharmed.

YANK AIRMEN KILLED IN MYSTERY EXPLOSION

American Headquarters Silent Concerning Enemy Report of Assault on Central Sector of Islands 400 Miles from Manila—Intense Aerial Attack Continues by Planes from Land and Sea—Whether Troops Actually Have Landed Yet Is Uncertain But Indications Are That Doughboys Have Carved Out First Beachhead

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
(By the Associated Press)
The long-promised American invasion of the Philippines is underway, Tokyo radio said today. Powerful naval task forces and transports "invaded" Leyte Gulf on the eastern side of the central Philippines, Tuesday (Manila Time) and for two days have been shelling and bombing defense establishments, said an impartial communique heard by the Federal Communications Commission.

"Part of the enemy forces seem to have landed on Suluan Island" at the mouth of the gulf, an earlier Domei News Agency broadcast reported.

Bombers Blast Route

Simultaneously Manila radio announced 270 carrier borne planes, sweeping over Luzon Island in four waves, bombed Manila and Clark Field's big air installations this morning.

The phrasing of the Imperial Command's special communique suggested, however, that American troops already might have carved out a beachhead on Leyte Gulf.

The bulletin, broadcast by the Tokyo radio, declared that Japanese land and sea forces were striking back at the invading armada, but gave no details on the progress of the battle, which was said to have started Tuesday morning (Tokyo Time).

There was no immediate confirmation of the bold thrust from U. S. quarters—but it was recalled here that the Japanese frequently have been the first to announce such assaults.

400 Miles From Manila

The area, only 400 miles from Manila, is an ideal spot from which to establish aerial control of the islands, and completely nullify air bases that carrier planes haven't already knocked out.

It would be another repetition of MacArthur's practice of striking the Japanese where they aren't—long familiar to those who have watched his progress since March 17, 1942. When he stood on the shores of Australia 2,000 miles from the Philippines and promised: "I came through and I shall return."

If the Japanese stories are correct, MacArthur's forces returned two years and six months to the day after he made that pledge. Japanese broadcasts were accepted by jubilant Chungking as being basically accurate.

Leyte Bay is situated on the north coast of Leyte Island, one of the larger islands in the Philippines group immediately north of Mindanao. The nearby village of Leyte has a population of about 6,700.

Japanese reports that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces have shadowed Allied capture of two strategic Nipponese bases and a reported three-day British air and Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten's route to Singapore.

British troops captured Tiddim, southwest Burma springboard for Japan's ill-fated invasion of India last March.

U. S. amphibious forces captured Ngulu Atoll in the western Carolines against slight resistance. Ngulu lies between recently conquered Ulithi and southern Palau, east of the southern Philippines.

Reports Hazy

Official Tokyo's brief announcement—unconfirmed by any U. S. sources, that U. S. warships and transports "invaded Leyte Gulf" did not specifically say that assault waves had landed. The task force entered the 80-mile long gulf Tuesday, the communique said. And on Wednesday the naval guns opened up and

WAC WAS HOUNDED BY ROBOT, HUSBAND SAYS

CHULA VISTA, Calif., Oct. 18.—(P)—Pvt. Ruth M. Brady, a WAC who recently was named in a War Department casualty list, was wounded by a robot bomb in England, her husband, James S. Brady, said today.

Mrs. Brady, a native of Mansfield, O., was driving a jeep when the bomb exploded near her last June, her husband said.

BELLAIRE, Oct. 19.—(P)—Only the lunch baskets of five men, last of 66 known dead in the July 5 Powhatan mine fire, were found when searchers broke into a corridor where they had expected find their bodies.

REDS SURGE ON IN OFFENSIVES ON TWO SECTORS

Russians Cross Border Into Prussia and Drive Through Balkan Mountain Barrier

(By the Associated Press)

Russian forces backed by 500 tanks have penetrated well into East Prussia where the German border town of Eydtkuhnen has been evacuated, the Berlin radio said today.

"The deepest Russian penetration" was in the Eydtkuhnen area 37 miles east of Insterburg and the Red army has passed this town, Berlin said. "The Russians have advanced further on German soil."

Tremendous infantry and tank forces were being hurled against the homeland of the Junker generals to "achieve a grand scale breakthrough at all costs," the enemy said.

The front was widened from 30 to 45 miles overnight with the Russians extending their attacks to the area of Suwalki, center of a triangle which Hitler annexed from Poland to East Prussia in 1939.

The enemy admission came within hours after the Russians announced an invasion of Czechoslovakia in the south on a 171-mile front, plunging through the main Carpathian mountain passes to a junction with other Russian army groups driving through Transylvania and Hungary.

Strong Russian attacks were reported west of Riga and south-east of the Latvian escape port of Liepaja, through which remnants of perhaps ten trapped German divisions in the Baltics must attempt an escape. Beyond Petsamo, the German command reported heavy fighting on the Arctic road leading into the frozen tundras of northern Norway.

CASUALTIES SINCE D-DAY ARE 174,780

Air Force Casualties Are Not Included in Figures

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(P)—United States army casualties on the western land front, from the invasion on June 6 through October 3, numbered 174,780.

Air force casualties are not included in this figure announced today by the War Department.

Of the total, 29,842 were killed, 130,227 wounded and 14,711 missing.

The casualties include those of the Seventh army which landed in southern France as well as those fighting in France, the lowlands and the German border region.

Since the start of the war, the combined army and navy casualty total is 453,375, compared with 417,085 two weeks ago.

Army casualties for all theaters through October 6 were 334,895, an increase of 33,602 since the last announcement of casualty figures October 5.

Of the 334,895 casualties, 75,562 are dead, including those who died of wounds as well as battle field deaths; 208,392 are wounded (excluding those who died of wounds); 48,404 are missing and 52,537 are captured and interned.

The latest navy casualty figure is 68,480, an increase of 2,688 in two weeks.

Nothing Very Real To War Widow Now That Dreams Can't Come True

By HAL BOYLE
WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN GERMANY, Oct. 11.—(Delayed)—In two years with the troops overseas I have read many stirring letters from wives who lost their husbands in foreign combat but none more moving than one written by Kath Irvin whose husband, Bede Irvin, was killed when an American bomb fell short in the breakthrough near St. Lo last July.

Bede, an Associated Press war photographer, now lies buried in France. He was the envy of every soldier and correspondent who knew him because the mailman never passed him by. He was gone from home a year and three months and every day his wife sent him a gay, gossipy letter invariably well-written and cheerful.

Like thousands of other American women whose husbands have died in action Kath has found it difficult to adjust herself to the

Florida Is Lashed By Tropical Storm

Hurricane Passing Over Tampa and Moving North; — Cities Boarded Up and Warnings Sent Out To Evacuate Low Coastal Areas Where High Tides Expected

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 19.—(P)—The Atlantic coastline from Daytona Beach to Cape Hatteras, N. C., was threatened today by a severe tropical hurricane that struck the Florida west coast before dawn and headed rapidly across the state toward Jacksonville.

The Weather Bureau reported at 10 A. M. that hurricane warnings had been hoisted from Daytona to Cape Hatteras in anticipation of winds of 60 to 80 miles an hour velocity.

The blow was moving into the Atlantic near Jacksonville. No loss of life or casualties were reported from the hurricane which earlier caused perhaps a dozen deaths, injured between 300 and 400 persons and sank at least three small vessels in Cuba.

The storm swung around Key West last night, moved up the Florida west coast and turned inland just east of Tampa.

Winds up to 100 miles an hour caused some property damage in the Tampa area and the city was warned to expect another hard blow later today. St. Petersburg came through with no heavy damage reported.

The hurricane gave the Florida

REMNANTS OF PALACE FOR GOERING FOUND

Vast Underground Village Was Near Paris

PARIS, Oct. 19.—(P)—Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering employed thousands of workmen to build a luxurious underground headquarters outside Paris, according to the French press, but all the Allies found intact was one swimming pool.

The remainder of the establishment, situated at Coudray Sur Thelle, 40 miles from Paris, was destroyed by the fleeing Nazis.

Work on the headquarters, says the newspaper, "Front National," was begun in 1941 inside a barbed wire enclosure. Hidden from prying eyes were underground offices, luxuriously-furnished apartments, a colossal casino for entertainment and halls for athletics.

During the construction, the paper said, a cave-in killed more than 100 workers. When work was finally completed, Goering established himself for long periods in the underground village, where fine concrete roads led cars down ramps well ventilated by huge steel-lined shafts.

ENGLISH VILLAGE LEVELED BY ROBOTS

LONDON, Oct. 19.—(P)—Heavy casualties were reported today in a small town in southern England which suffered one of its worst blows of the war as the Germans continued their flying bomb attacks for the eighth successive night.

An entire row of houses in the community was destroyed by a robot which plowed into the earth after being hit by anti-aircraft fire. Rescue workers still were digging in the ruins this morning for dead and injured, but the total number of casualties remained uncertain.

Flying bombs also fell in other scattered areas.

FIERCE FIGHTING IN HOLLAND AND INSIDE AACHEN

British and Americans Rock Germans Back on Meuse And Tighten on Antwerp

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

(By the Associated Press)
British Tommies and American armor rocked the Germans back toward Venlo on the Maas (Meuse) from the Holland salient today in what appeared to be the preliminaries to an offensive aimed at breaking German resistance before Christmas.

West of Antwerp in Holland Canadian forces were less than two miles from the German guns at Breskens commanding the sea entrance to the port from the pocket south of the Schelde.

In Aachen, U. S. First Army troops, again smashing German tank and infantry counterthrusts northeast of the Siegfried line city, held about half the wrecked city and smashed on into the northwestern quarter where fighters and fighter bombers pinpointed strongpoints ahead of the bazooka and grenade squads.

Coordinated Assault?

Coincident with Berlin's report of a savage Russian onslaught against East Prussia's defenses, the German radio declared that the British offensive in east Holland, "in support of the American attack on Aachen, has increased in violence."

The timing raised the possibility of a grand strategy plan to beat the Nazis by smashing simultaneously at East Prussia, heart of German militarism, while wrecking the Rhine-Ruhr valley, the center of German industry.

The Germans had been eliminated from all but about seven

50,000TH ENGINE IS FINISHED AT WRIGHT

Production More Than in 20 Years Before War

CINCINNATI, Oct. 19.—(P)—The Wright Aeronautical Corporation Plant in nearby Lockland today turned over to the government the 50,000th airplane engine produced here in three and one half years of the huge factory's operation.

Although actual production figures were veiled for reasons of military security, the plant said the total of 14-cylinder double-row Cyclone engines represented more than 85,000,000 horsepower, and that, counting spare parts, the aggregate exceeded 100,000,000 HP.

By comparison, the company said that in 20 years of its operation from 1919 to 1939, it produced only 20,000 engines.

ELEPHANTS TAKE BALLOTS TO SOLDIERS IN ORIENT

NEW DELHI, Oct. 19.—(P)—Elephants, ox carts and airplanes have been pressed into service to move ballots to soldiers serving in isolated outposts in the China-Burma-India war theater.

Nearly 1,200 pounds of ballots were flown here from the United States with the highest priority and indications are that from thirty to forty percent of the American armed forces voted. Approximately 95 percent of the ballots already are enroute to the United States.

NOBEL WINNER MYSTERY

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 19.—(P)—A Bern radio report that this year's Nobel prize for medicine has been awarded to Dr. Sir Alexander Fleming, discoverer of penicillin, apparently was based on speculation.

FIRST REPORT ON NWF IS DUE HERE FRIDAY

Workers To Report to Ward And Township Chairmen By Thursday Night

Friday Fayette Countians will know just how much more they have to go before they reach their $24,900 National War Fund quota.

All workers will report to their ward or township chairmen Thursday so that a report of the progress made in the first four days of the drive may be compiled.

Solicitors who already have completed covering their territory say that some money which otherwise would have gone to their particular ward or township has been pledged by men and women at the business houses or factories where they are employed.

In the homes of people who have contributed to the NWF, a window sticker is displayed, bearing the red, white and blue stars and bars of the NWF emblem.

REDS SURGE ON IN DRIVES ON TWO MAIN SECTORS: CROSS PRUSSIAN BORDER

Destruction of the enemy's Carpathian line after a month long struggle costing heavily in blood overshadowed other important successes on the eastern front.

Front dispatches said the mop-up of Belgrade was progressing steadily, with Germans fighting and dying like wild animals in blazing hillside buildings from which they could not escape.

Southeast of Belgrade elements of at least two German divisions were reported surrounded by Russian and Yugoslav Partisan forces.

Bulgarian troops spearheaded an all-silav drive across the width of Serbia, which has now reached Kursumlija, 40 air miles west of Nis, and only 130 miles from the Adriatic Sea.

For the seventh day there was no official news of the Red army's crucial battle at the approaches to Budapest. There was the possibility Hungarian forces loyal to Regent Nicholas Horthy may be regrouping for combined action against the Nazis with the Russians.

The Nazi garrison on Santorin Island, 70 miles north of Crete in the Sea of Candia, surrendered yesterday to the British cruiser Ajax, Allied headquarters announced today.

The naval command said that carrier planes sweeping in from the Aegean heavily attacked enemy transport in the vicinity of Volos, 35 miles southeast of Larissa on the Greek mainland. The same planes also took a heavy toll of enemy shipping in the Sporades Islands in the Aegean northeast of Athens.

A German armored vessel containing 200 German infantrymen was sunk in the same area October 16 by H. M. S. Argonaut while the destroyer Tergamant accounted for a Siebel ferry loaded with enemy equipment. Some survivors were picked up.

Six enemy vessels were destroyed and another merchant ship set afire October 17 off Lemnos, southeast of Salonika, the naval command announced. Twenty smaller enemy craft were disposed of in the same region.

Keys a severe lashing as it moved into the gulf from Cuba.

Seven persons were known dead, more than 300 injured and property damage was heavy in western Cuba after the storm battered the Havana area for more than five hours. Government officials said it would be days before the full toll would be known.

In Florida, residents of the thickly populated beaches at Bradenton and Sarasota moved inland. Extra keepers were ordered on duty at the winter quarters of Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Circus at Sarasota to attend the elephants in their steel cages.

Property damage in Havana alone was estimated at several hundred thousand dollars and government officials expressed fear that other communities suffered even heavier casualties and damage.

In a six A. M. bulletin, the Weather Bureau said the storm is centered over St. Petersburg and Tampa and that both cities report winds of 100 miles per hour.

The storm is continuing to move northward.

STATE PRISON TO CLAIM PAIR

Fayette Countian Convicted in Highland County

Sheriff W. H. Icenhower and Sheriff Cleo Shaffer, of Highland County, will take two Washington C. H. men to state prison, Friday, to begin serving their terms.

Strangely enough one of the Washington C. H. men was convicted in Highland County. He is Max Drumheller, alias Carl C. Dumitsk, 45, Washington C. H., found guilty of a degeneracy charge involving young boys, after a hearing in Common Pleas Court at Hillsboro, Wednesday.

In passing sentence on the man, the Court gave Drumheller a maximum sentence up to 20 years and informed him that he only wished he could make it life.

Sheriff Shaffer will bring Drumheller to this city and join Sheriff W. H. Icenhower who will take Pearl Gilmore to the Mansfield Reformatory to do time for picking pockets.

After delivering Drumheller to the penitentiary the two officers will continue on to Mansfield with Gilmore. The Fayette County Sheriff's car will be used.

representative he identified only as "Melinsky."

"This was no military armistice," the candidate declared. "That agreement fixed the future frontiers of Romania. It disposed of Bessarabia and Transylvania, two of the worst trouble spots of Europe. It dealt with economic matters."

"The Italian people deserve something better than the impoverished, inefficient administration which personal New Deal government is giving them," he said.

Dewey charged that "careful plans" worked out by the war and state departments for the occupation of Germany had been discarded when President Roosevelt took Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau with him to the recent conference with Prime Minister Churchill in Quebec.

The New York governor said a Morgenthau plan then was abandoned and Leo Crowley, head of the Foreign Economic Administration, ordered to prepare a new one. "Meanwhile," Dewey said,

"Germany's propaganda Minister Goebbels has seized upon the episode to terrify the Germans in Tampa and that both cities report winds of 100 miles per hour. They are fighting with the frenzy of despair. We are paying in blood for our failure to have ready an intelligent program for dealing with invaded Germany."

TWO DIE IN BLAST

LEBANON, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Fred Gibson, 36, and Hugh Terry, 32, both of South Lebanon, were killed in the explosion of a flare bomb at the King Powder Co. here yesterday. Two others were injured critically.

In 1943 an inscribed strip of bronze, indicating existence of a king of the world 2,500 years ago, was discovered in Palestine.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Completion and operation of a new $7,000,000 lubricating oil plant at Sun Oil Company's Marcus Hook, Pa., refinery was announced today by J. Howard Pew, president of Sun Oil.

COMPENSATION FEES NOW DUE

Employers Have Until Last Day of Month To Pay

Fayette County employers subject to the state unemployment compensation law have until October 31 to submit their contributions for the third quarter of this year, Administrator Charles H. Jones said today. Contribution report forms and instructions were mailed to all of the 50,190 covered employers in the state by the Bureau several weeks ago.

These contributions are based on wages paid by employers during the months of July, August and September. Administrator Jones explained that failure to pay his contributions within the Oct. 31 deadline makes an employer subject to the penalty imposed by the Ohio unemployment compensation law, and, if he is entitled to an exemption rate, will cause him to lose credit for the amount of his contribution when the Bureau calculates his rate for 1945.

If you lack a clothesline, hangers hung from the shower rod can be used to hold drying clothes.

WAGING BATTLE FOR HER LIFE

Mrs. Russell Duncan Has Blood Transfusion

Mrs. Russell Duncan, 19, who was critically burned while starting a fire with kerosene near Pleasant View, Saturday evening, is now battling for her life in St. Elizabeth Hospital, Dayton, where two blood transfusions have been made and another is planned later this week.

Mrs. Duncan was burned so deeply that she lost a great deal of blood, and already five persons have given a pint of blood to help her, and three others will go Saturday to offer their blood.

Of the first group of persons from Jeffersonville and community who offered their blood, one was found acceptable. That was Glenn Wilson.

Wednesday several others offered their blood to save Mrs. Duncan's life, and four were accepted. They are: Mrs. Charles Funk, Max Morrow, Mrs. Clyde H. Rings and Mrs. Betty Evans.

carrier aircraft swooped down on Nipponese defensive installations. Japanese "navy and army units" the communique added, "are at present intercepting this enemy force."

A landing anywhere around big Leyte Gulf, some 400 miles from Manila, would put MacArthur's forces in position for land-based air sweeps over the entire Philippines.

The enemy has six landing fields within 25 miles of the gulf on Samar and Leyte islands.

Planes Pave Way
Carrier planes in a week of pounding the Philippines, Formosa and the Ryukyu Islands to the north, have destroyed 915 Japanese planes and hundreds of ships. The figures do not include the toll taken in daily raids this week over the Philippines.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said two enemy transports were sunk, five other ships left in flames, and 19 planes destroyed Wednesday (Philippines Time) over Luzon and Camiguin islands. Manila radio claimed 33 Americans were shot down in those raids and 19 more today.

MacArthur's land-based planes sweeping the southern Philippines and its approaches sank or damaged six enemy vessels, pounded airdromes and rekindled fires at the Balikpapan oil refineries on Borneo.

In revised figures on the Formosa raids, Nimitz said 43 American planes were shot down. Tokyo claimed 112, and admitted loss of 312 Imperial aircraft. Nipponese propagandists raised their claim of U. S. warship losses to 57 sunk or damaged. Nimitz didn't change his figures of none sunk and two knocked temporarily out of action.

CHRISTMAS MERCHANDISE TO BE ABOUT THE SAME

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Christmas shoppers will find about the same amount of goods in department stores this year as last.

While the Federal Reserve Board said today that stocks at the end of August were one percent above a year ago in dollar value, Commerce Department officials interpreted this as meaning a small decrease in actual quantity of goods due to price rises.

Taking retail stores as a whole, the value of stocks was reported about the same as last year, the actual quantity somewhat less.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.

Japanese reports that the re-occupation of the Philippines has begun are, as usual, subject to revision for accuracy, but fit perfectly into the picture of the Pacific War which has been building up for some time.

Whether the Leyte Gulf action is actually a part of a general invasion or merely a preliminary is of little moment. Either way it means that within a comparatively short time MacArthur will have kept his promise to return.

Never before in world history has there been such a battle as that for the Philippines, which is actually what the entire Pacific War has amounted to so far. Japanese outposts have been pushed back gradually for thousands of miles to prepare for this action. Even Admiral Halsey's activities of the last few days, in a comparatively small corner of the great ocean, have been staged on a scale to stagger the imagination. He has thrown a great arc of protection between the Philippines and Japan, destroyed 915 enemy planes and with them the threat of aerial counter-action, sunk or damaged 312 ships, and smashed many of the bases from which both operated. Now history's greatest fleet and greatest floating air force can be placed at the disposal of MacArthur.

It brings the climax of two long years of fighting a cunning enemy in the jungles of the southwest Pacific with one hand while building, slowly and bitterly under the handicaps of priorities for Europe, the striking force for the return to the hallowed fortresses around Manila.

The battle will be bloody, but we can hope it will not be long. The Japanese have never been able to entrench themselves firmly in the central and southern Philippines, where native guerrillas and even some Americans have continued resistance. South of Manila the action can be expected to resemble very closely that on the individual islands which have been made the stepping stones for the return. Unless the situation has changed since last reports, or on Luzon can there be expected a full-scale clash of armies. And even that may have been reduced, through constant attrition of Japanese supply lines, to a less determined point than evidenced in the Solomons and New-Guinea.

Once recovered as a base for further operations against Japan, the Philippines will prove the key to the whole Pacific War. The resources of the Indies, Sumatra and Malaya on which the Japanese have depended will be largely cut off. In three years America, fighting two wars either of which would have staggered the historians of the past, will have returned the Pacific situation almost to its starting point. We know now that we can't "whip the Japs in ninety days" as some thought before Pearl Harbor. But we also know that if MacArthur has Thanksgiving dinner in Manila, Japanese Thanksgiving will be all over.

1,000 SCHOOL LUNCHES SERVED DAILY IN COUNTY

Five More Schools To Start Serving Soon; Total To Be Over 1,300

Steaming hot lunches are served every day to nearly 1,000 students in nine county schools, W. J. Hilty, superintendent of county schools, said today.

The 1,000 may jump to over 1,300 before long when five more schools begin serving meals at noon, Hilty added.

The lunch program in the county schools is a vital part of the school activities since most of the children ride buses to school and must eat their midday meal at the school house.

Most meals cost 15 cents or so and are prepared in school kitchens by school cooks. Nearly all the vegetables used on the menus were canned this summer by groups of women either in their own homes or in the school kitchens. Beans, corn, tomatoes, carrots, vegetable soup mixture, applesauce, peaches—all these are on the shelves of the school pantries now.

Bloomington serves an estimated 140 daily; Jeffersonville, 225; Milledgeville, 100; Good Hope, 125; Madison Mills, 125; Marion, 80; Staunton, 50; Yatesville, 40 and Bookwalter, 50. Other schools which are expected to start serving soon are Olive, with 70; Chaffin, 80; Eber, 80; Wilson, 125 and Conner, 60.

Program Being Expanded For Meeting at Which Secy. Wickard To Speak

As a climax to one of the biggest campaign rallies, devoid of torch lights and fanfare, ever held in Fayette County, the speech to be made by Claude R. Wickard, United States secretary of agriculture and member of the president's cabinet, at the high school auditorium Saturday night will be broadcast over the Blue network, R. W. Winegardner, chairman of the county Democratic executive committee, said as he rushed to completion plans and the split-second schedule for the expanding program.

Sec'y. Wickard is to go on the air, under present arrangements, through the facilities of station WING, Dayton, at 10 P.M. for exactly one-half hour. WING engineers will come here before the meeting to set up the microphones on the stage of the auditorium and the control equipment nearby.

Whether transcriptions will be made for later broadcasts over other stations was uncertain since the network hook-up has been arranged, Winegardner said.

Inasmuch as the secretary of agriculture's speech is considered of such vital interest to the people of this agricultural community, regardless of political beliefs, Winegardner said a big crowd was expected. And, because Sec'y. Wickard's speech is expected to deal more directly with farm problems than political issues, the committee said a program of general interest to, of and by the community was being worked out.

The meeting is scheduled to start at 8 P.M. when the president's address will be brought to the gathering in the auditorium by radio. He is to speak for half an hour.

From 8:30 P.M. until time for Sec'y. Wickard to go on the air, the program is to be given over to the farm people, old and young, of the community. Each of the four county high schools has been asked to contribute two or three numbers and the Grange and Farm Bureau heads have been offered the opportunity to present special messages. Details have not yet been worked out, but Winegardner said reaction of school authorities and farm organizations had been "very favorable" and added that "cooperation has been just fine." The schools, it was indicated, probably will present a variety of entertainment, featuring musical numbers while the farm groups will present discussions of current agricultural questions.

There was a possibility also that one or two Democratic candidates for state office and candidates for county offices might be presented, but the chairman declared emphatically "they will not make any speeches." He explained that the committee felt the appearance of a cabinet member and secretary of agriculture in this farming community and a radio broadcast of such proportions was of sufficient moment here to warrant development of the program as a community event rather than a strictly political rally.

Washington C. H. was selected for a broadcast of Sec'y. Wickard's speech presumably because it is in the heart of a typically agricultural section and it is expected to provide answers to many important questions.

Political observers, while conceding that the secretary of agriculture is not a political speaker, hold to the belief that his address will be one of considerable importance in the campaign for the support of the Midwest farm belt voters. Winegardner said he had heard Sec'y. Wickard speak and declared that "he devotes his time more to agricultural discussions than politics."

Santa on the Job

The annual Christmas overseas mailing frenzy is over for the American public. The post-office may put back into their places the scales brought forward on September 15 and the shears kept there for the use of patrons who would rather unpack an overweight package on the spot than make two trips. But the transportation headache still has some time to run.
Before October 15, the army and navy post-offices in San Francisco had already cleared more than 17,000,000 packages for Pacific areas. The New York postal authorities had delivered to their army post-office 10,000,000 items for the European sectors. And although the army unit had hired 2,500 women to help the 1,500 soldiers there, more men were needed to do the heavy handling. They have not been able to unload the mail cars as fast as they came in, and this makes a problem for the railroads which need the cars. Shipping space is the final hurdle, for it takes only 400 five-pound packages to equal one ton of cargo.
In spite of all, our men will have their Christmas in time, or before. It is a stupendous job well and willingly done.

Stuttering

There are more stutters in the United States than there are deaf, blind and insane put together. So says Dr. James F. Bender, founder of the National Institute for Human Relations, writing in the "Scientific Monthly." He thinks there may be 1,350,000.
More men stutter than women. In fact, women generally are better talkers than men and have a larger vocabulary. (Most men would say that they knew that already.) What causes this speech defect is not known, nor is it certain how to cure it. One investigator reports that stutters can talk fluently while crawling on their hands and knees, even if others are present. But most social life cannot be carried on indefinitely in that position.
A consolation for people afflicted with stuttering is that, according to Dr. Bender, they are apt to be above the average mentally. The only other thing known positively is that if a child stutters, it is a good idea not to let it go on, but to consult a doctor.

Veterans and Farming

Great harm can come to individuals and to agriculture if emotional and inexperienced planners high-pressure returning soldiers and sailors into becoming farmers on the theory that doing so will solve their postwar readjustment problems, Ray Yarnell, editor of Capper's Farmer points out.
"Caution should rule any effort toward mass settlement of war veterans on the land," he writes in the October issue of the farm magazine.
"There should be no widespread effort on the part of Government to wholesale veterans into agriculture as an easy way of avoiding possible unemployment after the war.
"Certain persons are suited to agricultural pursuits by temperament and fitted

SALT LAKE CITY—(AP)—Carr E. Payne has traveled around the world three times on a pocket knife, a nail and a tack hammer. He carves rose petals, vine leaves and flags on gun stocks, walking sticks and serving trays. He used to fare well from passengers on ocean liners fascinated by the skill of his knife blade.
Payne spent a total of 112 hours carving a new walking stick for President Roosevelt. He carved Old Glory and the U. S. seal in the handle. A rose vine twines 13 times around the cane, symbolizing the 13 states. Each leaf bears the name of a president and the years he held office. The 48 states are represented by 48 roses growing from the vine.

to them by training and experience," he writes. "Many came from farms, others from towns and cities. Both as a way of life and a business farming appeals to them.

"The nation will be smart if it encourages veterans so qualified to get into agriculture to the extent that sound opportunity exists.

"No veteran lacking an aptitude for farming or a desire to farm should be persuaded to get into it at the subsistence level by argument or enticed into it by unusually easy financing.

"Being a successful farmer is not easy for the skillful and experienced man. It is downright tough for anyone else. No arbitrary rule can be set up to determine which veterans shall farm and which shall not. That is not the American way. But these men can be given sensible advice so they can base their decisions on facts and not on dreams."

Billiard Ballistics

Ballistics, which Webster calls "the science or art of hurling missiles from an engine"—in other words, how to aim so that you hit your target has developed a new wrinkle. Yanks and Germans alike in the curving tunnels below Fort Driant are literally "shooting around corners." And how do they do it?

Well, they try to figure out just which point in the wall they must hit so that the bullet will glance off at the proper angle to hit the enemy hidden beyond the curve. Nice, tricky work. But not exactly a new idea to Americans. Squash-players and those who love fast ice-hockey will be in there plugging. And we'll bet that the winners of the battle of the tunnel will be the champion billiard players of their outfit.

For what is the "ricochet" or "angle of deflection" of military language but the pool-table "carom"?

Vaccine Infections

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

THE IDEAL for immunization against the contagious diseases which can be prevented by vaccines and vaccination would be to mix all the vaccines against everything together and give them all at one shot and get it over with. The difficulties in the way of this are great. The first is the danger. The mechanism of immunization is not known sufficiently well for us to say a priori just how a vaccine is going to work. All we have to guide us is experience and we have learned by rule of thumb, trial and error in the case of each vaccine exactly how much to give.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

We know that if we give a dose of twice as much or three times as much as our experience has taught us is an effective dose that we are certain to get reactions consisting of fever and chills, weakness and prostration. And it is just as bad to add two or three vaccines against different diseases together in the hypodermic as it is to add two or three times the dose.

Besides, by experience we have learned that in the case of some vaccines a single dose is not protective. Most of the cases of typhoid fever which occurred among troops in the last war were found to be in men who in the course of shifting around from camp to camp and in the confusion had not completed the whole course of these vaccinations. Thirty-three out of 237 cases were proved to be of this character.

Doubling on Immunizations
However attempts are being made to double up on the immunizations. We already know we can give them younger than we previously thought safe and also all five of the provedly effective ones—typhoid fever, smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough and scarlet fever—can be given over a fairly limited period of time. The latest report I find on work of this kind is on combining diphtheria toxoid and whooping cough vaccine. The work has been conducted by Drs. Sauer, Tucker and Markley, of Evanston, Illinois. They tried this out on 864 infants beginning at the age of 8 months. Disagreeable symptoms were no more frequently seen than in children who have been given diphtheria toxoid and whooping cough vaccine separately. The reactions were transient and mild.

Successful Procedure

Ninety-seven per cent of the children immunized were proved to be protected against diphtheria after a proper interval of time had elapsed before trying out the so-called Schick test. Seventy-two per cent were seen by tests to have immunity against whooping cough. But the whooping cough vaccine is not nearly as successful when given separately as the diphtheria toxoid. So we can conclude that the procedure seems to be quite a success.

We may look for these slight improvements in the production of immunity in children of school age. Certainly vaccination immunization is the most important health measure known and has prolonged and saved the lives of many thousands of children.

SYNOPSIS

Nurses Sarah Keate and Drue Cable came to the Brent mansion in response to a call from Dr. Chivory, local medic. Anna Haub, the Brent maid, stared at Drue in frightened recognition and pleaded with her not to remain. That coupled with Drue's unusual anxiety about their patient, Craig Brent, was the first indication Sarah had that her attractive young friend was acquainted with the Brents. Anna reluctantly explained that to Craig's room and explained that Craig, victim of a mysterious bullet, was found in the garden the previous night by Bevens, the butler, "Mr. Nicky," and Peter Huber, an old school friend of Craig, adding, "They said it was an accident—he was cleaning a gun." She again begged Drue to leave before Conrad Brent, Craig's father, discovered her presence. They are studying their unconscious patient's chart when Alexia Brent, Conrad's glamorous young wife, storms into the room. She demands that Drue leave immediately, saying, "Craig doesn't want you and Conrad won't have you here." Sarah is telling the story.

CHAPTER FOUR

Up to that point the interview had been candid to an embarrassing degree. But just then there was a kind of secret shifting of the emotions which had been hurtling around my defenseless (but I must say heartily listening) ears. Drue declared slowly, "I came here, Alexia, because they said Craig might die. But now if I can, I—I'm going to find out what really happened."

Alexia's eyes sharpened. "What do you mean?"

"I believe you know what I mean," replied Drue slowly, watching Alexia.

"I haven't the faintest idea," said Alexia swiftly, too swiftly.

There was a moment's silence. Then Drue rejoined quietly, "Perhaps not. But I'm going to talk to Craig."

"He's—he's too sick," said Alexia quickly. "You can't. Besides, Conrad won't let you."

"Conrad can't stop me," declared Drue.

"Oh, can't he?" cried Alexia. "You'll see."

Again Drue seemed to consider for a moment. Then she said with something very honest and appealing in her voice and face, "Alexia, you are Conrad's wife. It's nothing to you—what happened in the past. I don't suppose we can be friends."

"Friends!" exclaimed Alexia with a sharp little laugh.

Drue went on steadily, "... but there is no reason why you should object to my nursing Craig, and to my having an understanding with him."

"You've had your understanding," said Alexia, "via the divorce courts."

"But that," began Drue, very white and firm, "was because he wanted it and—"

"Certainly, he wanted it," cut in Alexia. "Did he ever come back to you later? You don't need to answer that. I know he didn't. It's no good arguing with me, Drue. Besides, even if I used my influence with Conrad in your favor—and I have influence, don't mistake that—he would still not listen. You wrecked all his plans for Craig. He won't have you in the house. And Craig doesn't want you. There's no mystery about the thing; if you've come here with that in your mind, you may as well leave voluntarily. You left Craig; you went to Reno; you sued for divorce. You were offered a settlement which you, rather unwisely, I thought, refused. The divorce went through without a hitch. That's all there was to it."

Alexia paused, caught her breath and added quickly, "If that's why you've come back—to get some money, I mean—Conrad won't give it to you. He would have given it to you at the time of the divorce. He offered what must have seemed to you, in your circumstances"—her glance swept Drue up and down quite as if Drue's skirt were threadbare and her shoes patched (as a matter of fact, Drue always looks soignée and smart and did that day)—"what must have seemed a fortune to you."

At that Drue went dead white and so rigid that only her eyes were alive, and they were blazing. Alexia stopped smiling and became perfectly tense.

So I knew it was time to do something. I've dealt with too many hysterical patients not to know that when a woman stops talking and looks like that one must act—but quickly.

I put my arm through Drue's and said with firmness, "I'm going to change my uniform. Come with me, Drue."

I drew her along with me toward the rooms at the end of the hall where our bags had been taken. Alexia called after us, lifting her voice, "There is a six-thirty train. The station wagon will be at the door at six." She stood there, I was sure, watching our progress down the hall.

The little terrier had quietly emerged from the bedroom close to Drue. I wasn't aware of him until we reached my room and I saw that Drue went inside first and "Sir Francis" came too.

Again I closed the door. I said, "Well..." a little forcefully and put down my handbag and gloves, and took off my hat.

It was a pleasant room, plainly furnished, bright with chintz and plenty of windows. It was obviously intended for just such use—a trained nurse, an extra guest. Along one wall was a door into a bathroom which connected on the other side with the room Drue was to have, and her bags were stacked there, for I went and looked.

When I came back, Drue was standing by the window, holding the dog tight in her arms, looking down through the streaming rain. I took out my keys, knelt to open the suitcase that held a supply of uniforms and said, "All right. What's all this about?"

She turned from the window. "I had to do it this way, Sarah. I had to come and I had to have you with me. I didn't dare tell you he'd been shot. I was afraid you wouldn't come."

"You knew good and well I wouldn't have come."

"They telephoned to me, you see, as I heard it was—was Craig, it was like—well, fate. As if..." Her voice stopped and, after a moment, she said in a kind of choked way, "As if that was why I had learned to be a nurse. So I could nurse him. They said he might not live, and—she finished in an unsteady whisper—"there is so much I haven't said to him."

That's the gnawing heartache of death, of course; the thought of the things you didn't say and now cannot ever say.

It did no good to think of that. I rustled out a starched uniform and said briskly, "Well, you're here now and so am I. He looks pretty tough. That's why you telephoned to me yourself?"

"I made the girl at the Registry office let me telephone you and make the arrangements. I was afraid if she talked to you she'd tell you..."

I remarked tritely, "Honest confession is good for the soul," and got out my nursing watch and strapped it to my wrist.

"Oh, Sarah, you are a darling!" "Fiddlesticks!" You mean, "I'm a good nurse." Then I added, "You'd better take off your jacket and get on with the story."

Obediently she slipped off her suit coat. She looked very young in her plain white blouse and short green skirt; she pushed her shining curls upward with one hand and said bleakly, "You heard Alexia. They'll try to make me leave. But I'm not going."

Well, certainly the interview with Alexia had left little to the imagination in that respect. But I didn't think Drue had stolen the family silver or murdered Grandpa during what must have been a fairly brief sojourn under the Brent roof. For I had known her when she was in training, a thin, hard-working child of eighteen or thereabouts, with a gay smile and intelligent eyes. I had then been a Supervisor (which I understand the student nurses spell with an n and two o's) but had liked her nursing and remembered her later when we met again, both doing private duty.

We knew each other well, in spite of the constant coming and going—the interruptions, the weeks and sometimes months of dropping out of sight while on a long or trouble-some case—that make up a private nurse's life. Yet she had never mentioned nor hinted at this particular interlude, so to speak. Unless the sudden dropping away of a very smitten and attentive young interne, a few months ago, was such a hint.

I got out studs. "I've got to hurry. You and this Craig Brent met and married. It must have been very quiet—I usually know about these things. Then you were divorced. Conrad must be Craig's father and he must have money. Alexia, who does not appear to be exactly a friend..."

"She was expecting to marry Craig, when we met, Craig and I," Drue explained.

"It must have been charming for her."

"Sarah!" Drue whirled around. "It wasn't—I didn't mean—oh..." She bit her lip and looked at me, her eyes bright with tears.

"Charming for all of you," I said. "At any rate, last night Craig was shot and you inveigled me (under false pretenses) to come here with you on the case. That's all I know."

"It's all there is to know. It was all wrong, you see, from the beginning. I'd better tell you. We oughtn't to have married. He—we were so young. That was over a year ago."

A year ago! So now she felt aged and adult and looked back on herself a year ago as being very young. She couldn't have been, allowing even for the years of her training, more than twenty-four at the most.

IF—your boy is serving with the armed forces in Australia, he has become accustomed to a new mode of life, one entirely different from his home town back in America, but a way that is pleasant and sometimes amusing to him. He hears the clerk tell him the purchase price is "one and six" and he knows she means one shilling and a six pence, or 18 pence in all. Then he goes on to figure in the back of his head that the price is about two-bits in American money. He finds American brands of merchandise on display and they make him a little homesick for the moment. He listens to the radio and quite often he hears the swing music of Artie Shaw and recordings made by other famous American bands.

On the streets he sees signs denoting certain places as "cassket shops," or "lotteries," and he sees a man with a dressed duck

He finds the language pronounced somewhat different from what he has been used to hearing back home, but he catches on very quickly. He hears the Australians say "die" for day and "trine" for train. He hears the clerk tell him the purchase price is "one and six" and he knows she means one shilling and a six pence, or 18 pence in all. Then he goes on to figure in the back of his head that the price is about two-bits in American money. On the streets he sees signs denoting certain places as "cassket shops," or "lotteries," and he sees a man with a dressed duck in his hand selling chances on it in the street for a worthy war charity. The man calls out:

"Look at it! Fit for the queen. Take a chance—only six pence."

Your boy "down under" in Australia sees the folks come down town on Saturday night, just as they do at home, to do the weekend shopping and carry tired and sleeping babies home when it's all over. If he drinks beer, he goes to the pub, not a "night spot," and he "queues up" with his pals and a lot of other fellows who are after the same thing. He finds the stores operate on shorter hours, such as from 8:30 A. M. to 11 A. M., then from 1:30 to 5 P. M.

He hears a lot of talk about sports, especially horse racing, for the Australian is just as great, and probably a greater sports fan than he is himself.

It is different down under, but it is fun.

One Less Tramp in Our Town

Esther Curless found a tramp asleep in the hammock in her apple orchard, and she didn't hesitate a minute. She grabs a rolling pin—and the last thing she saw of him, the tramp was making dust tracks to the state line.

"It ain't only that I don't like laziness," says Esther, "specially in wartime. It's that that particular hammock is Ned's hammock—and Ned's fightin' for it overseas!"

Then she shows us Ned's last letter where he says: "I keep dreaming of my hammock in the orchard, with Rags lying underneath, and a cool glass of beer beside me."

A soldier's picture of home! The little friendly pleasures that he misses so! From where I sit, Esther's mighty right in wanting to defend those "little things" from all intruders. They're among the things our men look forward to returning to—the things we want to keep intact for them.

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The recent resignation of Robert E. Sherwood, gangling head of the of the overseas division of the Office of War Information, for the announced purpose of devoting full time to the President's fourth term campaign, again raises that old issue: Who writes the Roosevelt speeches? Few men in public life could obtain a better speech polisher than the slobber "Bob" Sherwood. He is easily one of the most distinguished playwrights in the American theater today and undoubtedly one of the most versatile.
He has run the gamut of dramatic versatility from somewhat bawdy comedies like "The Road to Rome" and "Reunion in Vienna," through such powerful pieces of bitterness as "Waterloo Bridge" to the soul-searching seriousness and well-mouthed phrases of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." Make no mistake, Mr. Sherwood can write.
So far as I know, neither President Roosevelt nor any of his corps of "young men" has ever told the story of just how the President's speeches are written. But in nearly 12 years of his occupancy of the White House, the story has drifted out piecemeal and there isn't any doubt that Mr. Roosevelt "writes" his own speeches.

I use the "writes" in quotation marks, but it should be obvious to any one that no person in such high office, with all the speeches, messages, and telegrams to be written could find time or strength to write all of them.

This was possible in the days when oratory was in flower and a man's political stature could be measured by his ability to get up on his feet and mouth great periods with no more help than a few notes jotted on the back of an old envelope.

Today, government and politics are more complicated. The research is necessarily the work of many hands, not one. If the President, for example, is going to make a speech on farm relations, the Department of Agriculture and the War Food Administration might very well supply the body of it. A half dozen other agencies might be called upon.

Once this information is in, one or many of the President's executive staff may correlate the material and, having a knowledge from conference of what thesis the President wishes to develop, pare away the surplus and produce some sort of a rough draft.

There is where, after more conferences, Robert Sherwood may come in to give the speech its polish, its drama, its timing.

But even then, the last word is the President's. He uses the red pencil freely inserting phrases, scoring out others. Even then, when the President takes the rostrum, he doesn't always follow his text, sometimes to the pain of his "advisors."

Judge Samuel I. Rosenman is generally credited with having more to do with writing the President's speeches than any other of his assistants, but that doesn't mean that he's the "writer." The public papers and speeches of Franklin D. Roosevelt are as much his own as those of any man—in high public office could be today—and far more than most.

Regular Meeting Of Missionary Society Held

The monthly meeting of the Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian Church was held in the church parlors, Wednesday afternoon, with the first vice-president, Mrs. Frank Jackson, presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. Harry Sprenger.

Mrs. Jackson opened the meeting with giving an appropriate quotation: "I was glad when they said unto me—Let us go into the house of the Lord." She also read a lovely poem, "A Friendly Church." Mrs. Herbert Clickner presided at the piano for the singing of the hymn "Bringing in the Sheaves."

The secretary, Miss May Duffee read the minutes of the last meeting. In the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. W. B. Hershey, no report was given. The visiting committee reported thirty calls made. Mrs. Clickner gave a detailed financial report of the entertainment committee.

Mrs. Jackson asked for reports of the district meeting held recently at Greenfield and Mrs. Seigel Mossbarger gave a detailed and very interesting report of the morning session and Mrs. A. B. Murray of the afternoon session.

Miss Harriet Jackson, connected with the school at Rocky Fork, Tenn., and always a welcome guest, told interestingly and amusingly of the work among the people of the mountain country.

Mrs. C. S. Kelley was leader for the afternoon when the subjects for study were "India and Alaska."

Mrs. Kelly read the quotation: "We know that to them that love God, all things work together for good, even to them that are called, according to His purpose."

Miss Emma Jackson read the names from the Year Book of Prayer and offered prayer for all missionaries at home and abroad.

The subject of Mrs. C. H. Thoroman's splendid paper was "India." She stated, "India, next to China, is the most densely populated country in the world. There are 490 million inhabitants and the great majority of them are uneducated. There are four distinct castes or classes of people and it is almost impossible for one to rise above their caste." Special mention was made of Rev. and Mrs. Higgenbottom, missionaries in India for many years who have just returned to this country.

Mrs. Herbert Clickner's subject was "Young Alaska." In Such A Time As This. She said Alaska was bought from Russia in 1867 for seven million dollars. The population is now half Indians and Eskimos, and half whites. Drink and mixed marriages are problems of the country. The cheapest means of travel now is by airplane. It is said ten percent of the soldiers now stationed there plan to return there to establish homes after the war. The Sheldon-Jackson Presbyterian school and the Haines' school and church are playing an important part in the war.

Mrs. Kelly asked all members to remember the "Mite" boxes would be collected at the next meeting.

Mrs. J. K. Abernethy announced they would have "open house" at the manse Thursday evening, October 27th, to which members of the church and public are invited to meet a friend just returned from China and who is staying over night at their home.

Mrs. Jackson closed the meeting with the Mispah benediction. Very delicious refreshments were served in the dining room. On the lace-covered center table

Potluck Supper Held Wednesday

The monthly Missionary meeting of the North Street Church of Christ convened at six-thirty o'clock, when the members assembled for a covered dish supper preceding the interesting evening program.

One large serving table was arranged with a number of good dishes, after which the members found their places at long tables, each being decorated with red streamers down the center of the table, and double candleholders were placed at each end. A bowl of green flowers was placed in the center of each table, and at each place white napkins with a miniature map of India pasted to them, were greatly admired.

Following the meal, group singing was enjoyed before members adjourned to the parlor for the program, conducted by Mrs. Harriett Jenkins.

Mrs. R. B. Carver was introduced and had as her subject the "Missionary Work in Tibet and China," which was of interest to all. Mrs. Hazel McNorton's topic was "Missionary Work in Japan." A discussion of "Home Missions" was held and closed with a poem by Miss Alice Davis, "Our Missionaries."

The program chairman had arranged world maps and missionary posters about the walls of the parlor, which helped the members locate each country under discussion.

Dinner Party
Mrs. Leora Booco entertained with a small and informal dinner party at her home, and had as guests Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Alexander, Rev. and Mrs. E. F. Andree, Wilmington; Rev. and Mrs. E. R. Rector and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fultz.

was a lovely arrangement of French marigolds with lighted tapers in crystal holders. There were several other vases of lovely fall flowers throughout the rooms. Thirty members were present.

Fifty-four Attend District Meeting Of Music Clubs

Fifty-four members attended the middle-west district conference of the Ohio Federation of Music Clubs held Wednesday at the Washington Country Club in this city. Mrs. J. Rankin Paul, president of the Cecilian Club, gave the opening greetings to members attending who came from DeGraf, Greenville, Springfield, Xenia, Marion and Columbus.

Mrs. Herman L. Brown, Greenville, responded on behalf of those attending, and Mrs. Paul then turned the session over to Miss Lottie Lees, the middle-west district president.

The singing of the national federation hymn and club collect was held preceding the roll call and club reports by district and state chairmen. Mrs. Walter Craig, acting secretary, gave the minutes of the previous middle-west conference. A report was also given by Mrs. James C. Woods, the circulation manager of the Ohio Federation of Music Club magazine.

A most delicious and appetizingly-prepared luncheon was then served to the members, who found their places at several large tables placed informally about the club lounge. Each table was centered with artistically arranged bouquets of chrysanthemums and roses, entwined with greenery. The luncheon hour was one of prolonged enjoyment for the members.

The singing of the national anthem opened the afternoon session, and the topic "Fighting Musicians" by Mrs. Freeman T. Eagleson, state president, was followed by the introduction of state officers and guests.

"Music in Hospitals" was the subject taken by Mrs. H. K. Mouser, state chairman.

The Cecilians' Ensemble from the club then presented the following musical portion of the meeting, opening their program with "The Quiet Road," by Speaks.

Then the ensemble gave an East Indian number by Strickland, "Shepherd Song," which was greatly enjoyed and closed with "In Luxembourg Gardens," by Manning. The ensemble was composed of Mrs. Leonard Korn and Mrs. Fred Enslin, first soprano; Mrs. Maynard Icenhower and Mrs. Robert Parrett, second soprano; Mrs. Charles Hire and Mrs. Robert Craig, alto. Mrs. George Pensyl directed and Mrs. Marian Gage, accompanied at the piano.

The election of state officers was then conducted and resulted in the following taking office: president, Miss Marjorie Street, Xenia; vice-president, Mrs. Hugh Hudson, Bellefontaine; secretary, Mrs. John Rensberg, Springfield; treasurer, Mrs. George Brell, Sidney.

Concluding the program, Miss

Chili Supper Enjoyed by 21

The home of Mrs. W. W. Humphries on Washington Avenue was the scene of a chili supper and regular meeting of Alpha Circle (Child Conservation League), Wednesday evening, which was attended by twenty-one members.

Mrs. Humphries had laid covers for twenty-one at the large dining room table and three smaller tables. The large table was centered with a bowl of fruit flanked by tall tapers, and each smaller table was centered with a bowl of garden flowers. The brilliant colors of the luncheon cloths used carried out the lovely colors of flowers and the fruit bowl.

President, Mrs. Frank Brown, opened the business meeting, after which the members answered the roll call by giving definitions of their children's names. At this time the names of the cheer sisters were revealed, and new names were drawn for the coming year.

A paper prepared on the subject, "Mental Development" by Mrs. A. E. Weatherly was read by Mrs. Wendell Whiteside. A general discussion of the topic closed the most entertaining and interesting session of the Alpha Circle.

LOCAL MAN WITH HOWITZER UNIT IN PO VALLEY

Robert L. Combs Is Truck Driver With Noted Battalion

Private Robert L. Combs, 1129 Gregg Street, truck driver, serving with the 175th Field Artillery Battalion, the first American unit to fire its howitzers on the Nazis in this war, is now participating in the Fifth Army offensive in the Po River Valley in Italy.

The distinguished battalion of which he is a member, has been in action on the Italian front since landing at Salerno over a year ago. During the initial months of the campaign the 175th made five serious crossings of the Volturno with a period of 40 days and on each fording quickly took up positions to blast a path for the advancing 168th Infantry Regiment.

At the battle for Cassino, the unit played a conspicuous part in the long bombardment of the German stronghold, finally being pulled out of the sector and sent to Anzio for the powerful drive culminating in the capture of Rome.

Not stopping to rest at the Italian capital, the battalion drove relentlessly north, firing merciless barrages at the enemy as they retreated from the important ports, Civitavecchia and Leghorn and continued the dramatic push over the Arno River, resulting in the capture of Pisa and Florence. Facing its third rainy winter in combat, the 175th is now engaged in the difficult drive forcing the enemy into northern Italy.

Originally a Minnesota National Guard organization, the 175th was shipped to the British Isles in May, 1942 as part of the 34th "Red Bull" Division, the first unit to go to the European theater. Membership at present is two-thirds selective service men from all sections of America.

After taking part in the original invasion of French North Africa at Algiers, the battalion was the first to contact the Nazis in this war, firing on them at Medjez-El-Bab in Tunisia. At the front throughout the Tunisian campaign, the 175th performed heroically at the battles of Kaserine Pass, Fondouk and Hill 609.

Nothing is very real to war widow whose dreams can't come true

Because I knew Bede and Kath well Danny showed me this letter and I should like to share it with you for the picture it gives of a perfect marriage broken by war. I know Kath will understand my reason and therefore won't mind.

"... Nothing is very real now," she wrote. "And I find myself putting away little chit-chat in my mind for future letters I will be writing to Bede—and then I remember there can be no more letters to write to him, can be no more mail coming from him, can be no home leave, no home coming at all so far as my Bede is concerned. But it is the impossibility of everything which makes it hard for me to believe that it is true and makes me think that he will some day be returning home like millions of other men will some day be doing."

"There is so little comfort in the fact that Bede was a good soldier and died a good soldier's death... Bede held no ideas of ever being heroic. He would say how little he did over there compared to what so many other men were contributing. Yet he had a certain amount of satisfaction in knowing that he was doing what-ever he had to do to the best of his ability. I know Bede was happy this past year and three months—as happy as any man can be so far away from his family and home.

"... There are so many things I want to thank you for—the pictures you sent—Bede's campaign ribbon—and the Mass you asked your uncle to say for Bede. That was a beautiful thing to do, Danny. I know of no lovelier thing than one man sharing his religion with another."

"I don't know if you are married, Danny, but there are so many hopes and plans between a husband and wife. Plans that won't for Bede and myself ever come true. Nothing we ever dreamed of together can ever come true now. Little sounds of shattering hopes and dreams are big noises now—nothing to hope for—and no understanding."

"... Not seeing Bede around the house isn't an unusual thing for me—it has been a long time since we were together in our own apartment. For you boys in London it is different. You have seen Bede more recently than I. You have eaten with him, talked with him, been around him—and now that he is gone it is hard in another way for all of you, too... I know how heavy your hearts will be... and how carefully dry your eyes will be as you carefully try to avoid mention of Bede's name."

"I, too, have things to face. There will be no more dinners for us together, no more future to dream of and plan on together. But most of all there will be no more Bede. No more Bede ever coming home again. I do have memories—memories of Bede and memories of happiness we found together in some eight years of being married. I have memories and pictures and letters. They're good to have—good to lean on—but there is never to be Bede himself again."

"No, Danny, there is nothing more you can do. You've already done so much and there is nothing more I could ask for. The one thing I want cannot be acquired—Bede."

"Maybe some day, if ever we meet again, perhaps you can talk to me about Bede—tell me something I might not know—let me of Bede the soldier, for the only one I know is the Bede that was with me for all too short a time, the Bede who listened to the sound of taps on his 34th birthday, the Bede who now lies asleep on French soil where he once picked two red poppies and sent them to me in one of his last letters."

Kath kept Bede happy by her letters to the day of his untimely death. Through her letters she was with him—part of his life—every day for the 15 months he was away.

And the moral—if you want one—is: Write that letter to your man in service. Many a soldier will die on Germany's soil.

JUDGING CONTEST TO START HOG SALE

Educational Entertainment Before Auction Begins

Something new and different is to be added to the Poland China hog sale J. A. Purcell & Sons and Earl Harper & Son are to hold next Saturday afternoon in the cattle barn at the Fairground.

Before the sale gets under way at 1 P.M. there is to be a hog judging contest—in fact two of them, one for adult farmers and one for boys under 21 years of age. Before he explained the mechanics of the contest, Harper said that they had decided to hold the contests "so there would be something interesting to do while waiting for the sale to begin."

He also viewed them as educational. The winners in each contest are to be allowed a $5 deduction from the purchase price of any hog they may want to buy.

The rules, as Harper explained them, are simple: First, four or five gilts and four or five pigs will be selected for judging. Then, an expert (probably Carlton Greaves, Greene County Poland China breeder) will judge them, placing them by number in order of his selection on a card to be kept secret. Those who want to try their hand at judging will mark their selections in order on a card for comparison with that filled out by the expert. Second prize is to be the same as first prize, Harper said.

There also will be a weight judging contest. This is expected to be the center of considerable interest because of the importance to a hog breeder or feeder of being able to judge the weight of hogs.

In all 40 Poland Chinas will be offered on the auction block—18 spring boars, two fall boars and 20 spring gilts. Joe Frank and Walter Bumgarner are to be the auctioneers.

TIRE INSPECTION STATION LIST IS CHANGED HERE

Five of 20 Authorized Are To Inspect Passenger Cars Only

Although regular tire inspections have been abolished as one of the requirements for getting gasoline rations, they are still a necessary part of the application for new tires, it was said at the office of the county's Ration Board as a revised list of inspection stations was released.

Twenty service stations, garages, etc., have been authorized as inspection stations, but under the revisions five of them are for passenger cars only while the other 15 are for both trucks and passenger cars. Here is the new list:

(P denotes passenger cars only)

Standard Oil Co. (P), Court and Hinde Street.

Montgomery Service Station (P), 150 South Fayette Street.

Matthews Service Station (P), Route 35.

Community Oil Co. (P) Court Street.

E. R. Schnell Pure Oil (P), 403 West Court Street.

Rankin's Repair Station (T), Milledgeville.

Huntington and Huntington (T) Bloomingburg.

Wm. Clarke Service Station (T) 122 South Fayette Street.

Goodyear Service Store (T), 114 West Court Street.

McKinley Kirk Service Station (T), 205 West Court Street.

Hawkinson Tread Service (T), 833 East Market Street.

Holdren Auto Sales (T), Good Hope.

Pure Oil Company (T), 124 East Market Street.

R. Brandenburg Motor Sales (T), Clinton Avenue.

Barnhart Oil Co. (T), Market and North Street.

The Tire & Rubber Shop, (T), 115 N. North Street.

Rogers' Garage (T), Route 2.

Dunlop Tire & Rubber (T), 249 East Court Street.

Allen's Garage, (T), Milledgeville.

Morgan & Stewart (T), 511 Columbus Ave.

It was explained by a spokesman for the tire panel that although tires are scarce there are still a few being made available for qualified users—but, it was emphasized, an official tire inspector's report showing that the applicant has not abused the old tires and that new tires are actually needed must accompany the application. From there on, it was explained, the panel is governed by usual standards of essential need and the availability of tires in granting, or denying, a certificate for purpose.

New regulations also have been drawn up as a guide for inspectors:

"Under no circumstances should an inspector use his old qualification number. The authority of this old number was revoked district wide as of August 1, 1944. The new number is located at the bottom of the new 'Oath of Office' and should be displayed in a conspicuous place in the business location.

"Local boards should not accept R-1 applications for consideration which do not have the prefixed letter 'P' or 'T' designating the authority and type of inspector.

"Official OPA truck inspectors will not make a certification on R-1 until the periodic truck inspection record (CWN 17 or 17A or substitute) is present, unless the truck is part of a fleet and the records are available in applicant's office."

Tire dealers have been notified that "it is imperative that all dealers, without exception, report their September 30 inventories."

These inventories, to be filed on Form R-17, were due three weeks ago, on October 3, but some, it was said, have not yet been received. Assuming part of the responsibility for the delay, it was said at the board that "if a tire dealer's name was not on our mailing list his request for Form R-17 should be sent to OPA Inventory Branch, Empire State Building, New York 71, N. Y., by air mail or prepaid telegram."

Markets and Finance

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—AP.—Rains and specialties attracted modest bids in today's stock market while many leaders stumbled moderately over lighter prices.

Helpful to bullish arguments was the slowing of dealings upon the appearance of irregularity. Expanding volume recently has accompanied the advance. Investors generally turned a bit more cautious, however, in view of the proximity of the averages to their 7-year peaks touched last July.

SPOT PARKING METER PLACES IN THIS CITY

Work of Installing Them To Be Completed in Two Weeks

Work of spotting locations for parking meters in the business area was started Wednesday, and Thursday the first drilling for parking meter posts was to get under way, so that the work of installing the meters may be completed within the next 10 days or two weeks.

Robert Boston, of the V. D. I. Sales Co., Cincinnati, came here Wednesday, and with the aid of City Manager Stambaugh, started the work of measuring spaces for the parallel parking on Court Street, and spotting the places on the other streets where the meters are to be placed.

City Manager Stambaugh said the meters will be installed for parallel parking on Court Street from North Street to Hinde and that meters for head-in-parking will be installed on Fayette Street a half square north of Court Street and a half square south of Court Street; and on Main Street from Market to a half square south of Court Street; parallel on Hinde Street from Court north on the east side only, to the alley back of the Post Office.

Additional meters may be installed later, it is indicated.

No meters will be installed on East, North and Market streets, it is stated. Approximately 235 meters will be installed.

On Court Street the parking zones will be 21 feet in length, except at the street and alley intersections, where 18 feet has been allotted by reason of the open space either in front or behind the cars parking in those zones.

None of the meters will be used until all are installed, inspected, and approved, then notice will be given to the public when the meters are to be placed in use. The meters will be used in daytime only, it is understood.

The parallel parking in Court Street is expected to ease the flow of traffic through that important street. No double parking is to be permitted when the meters are installed.

Parking will be permitted 12 minutes for one cent; 24 minutes for two cents; 36 minutes for three cents; 48 minutes for four cents and a full hour for five cents.

The meters are expected to ease the parking situation and make it possible to obtain a parking place sufficiently long to load goods or do shopping with cars handy to shopping places, for little cost.

FIFTH GRADERS ALL BEHIND WAR EFFORT

Cherry Hill Class Buys War Stamps 100 Per Cent

School children do not make outright bond purchases, but their steady trickle of weekly war stamp purchases help keep the flow of war materials to the fighting fronts steady too.

This week, Miss Amelia Pensyl's fifth grade at Cherry Hill School came through 100 percent in its war stamp purchases. A $25 to $50 weekly purchase at Cherry Hill is the average for all the rooms, but when every pupil in a single room buys a stamp on the same day, it is unusual, Miss Opal Davids, Cherry Hill principal, said.

HAD NO LICENSE; MANY PAY FINES IN COURT HERE

Check-up of State Highway Patrol Sends Flock To Municipal Court

As a result of the check-up made by four highway patrolmen, on the Chillicothe highway a mile south of this city, Tuesday, a half score of persons were cited before Judge R. H. Sites in municipal court, Wednesday and Thursday, for having no drivers license.

One man, Tom Kirk Price, drew $5 and costs for having insufficient brakes.

Those fined $10 and costs of $4.70 for failing to have a drivers license included: Kenneth Lightner DeLong, Lewis Rose, Gene Patterson, James T. Baker, Charles A. Fabb, Eleanor Ellis (Denver, Colo.), Raymond Kohn, James Wagner and W. H. Tremeyer.

One or two others were to appear Thursday on charges of not having drivers license.

As result of the fines assessed for failure to comply with the state law requiring every operator of a motor vehicle to have an operators license, it is expected those who do not possess licenses will rush to the Fayette Auto Club to obtain their new licenses.

Other traffic checks will probably be made just outside this city in the near future, as well as at many other points in this part of the state.

WHS BAND WILL SMASH AXIS FRIDAY NIGHT

Football Dads Will Be Honored In Pre-game Band Formation

The high school band literally will smash the axis Friday night. The big between-half show will be spotlighted when part of the band forms a swastika in the middle of the field as another part in in airplane formation zooms into the middle to smash the swastika.

William B. Clift, director of the WHS band, said drums and trombones would make the sound effect of the roaring whine of a dive bomber as the plane, with wings made by the drum majorettes, fuselage by trumpets and propeller by Poby Eckle, drum major, skims down the field to the center of the Nazi emblem. As the plane hits the center, a bass drum and cymbal crash will send the swastika flying. The blasted swastika and plane will fall into a V and dot-dot-dot-dash formation to play "The Stars and Stripes Forever," Clift said.

Before the swastika is made, the band will salute Mount Vernon with an MV formation. The traditional W and alma mater will wind up the half-time display.

Football dads will be honored before the game when the band makes DAD just before the dads march on the field. The formation will be held until the men go to their seats, Clift said. The band will march to its section playing "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow."
